

Brand story

Who we are

Husband Digital is a small Sydney firm, a trading name of Maritus Pty Ltd, that sets up the technology Australian trades, small businesses and busy households depend on: websites, email, networks, backups, cameras and automation.

Who we're for

Trade businesses and small businesses that need to look and run like a proper operation without carrying an agency's overhead, and larger homes that want the same reliability and the same plain-English handover a good trade already gives them.

What we promise

We install the work properly, document it so you own it, and quote a fixed price in writing before anything starts. Behind the work sits a team of AI agents that drafts, builds and checks it, with our people setting the direction and owning every decision and every client relationship.

The name

Husbandry is the careful management of the things you depend on. That is the dictionary meaning, and it is exactly the service on offer.
